

HB 333 -- Religious Books in Public Schools

Sponsor: Shumake

This bill allows religious books to be used in public schools as part of instruction in elective courses in literature and history as long as the books are used in a way that does not violate the Establishment Clause of the United States Constitution.