FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

Officials at the Department of Agriculture (AGR) state approximately 30 grain dealers who purchase less than 50,000 bushels of grain and who are currently licensed would be exempted from license requirements. Each pay a license fee of $40 annually, so a total of $1,200 less would be collected by the agency. However, exemption audits would continue, so the Grain Regulatory Services Program (GRS) would still need to make annual site visits to determine compliance.

AGR state GRS fees are paid into the Agriculture Protection Fund (APF). Approximately 30 grain dealers would be exempt from future license requirements based on the most recent grain purchases reported. The Grain Dealer license fee is $40 annually. $$40 \times 30 = \1200 .

AGR state there would be no cost savings to the agency from this exemption, as compliance audits would continue to verify exemption compliance.

Oversight assumes AGR can absorb the cost related to this proposal as the number of grain dealers who purchase less than 50,000 bushels of grain, and would be exempted from the license fee is minimal.

Officials from the Office of the Secretary of State (SOS) state many bills considered by the General Assembly include provisions allowing or requiring agencies to submit rules and regulations to implement the act. The SOS is provided with core funding to handle a certain amount of normal activity resulting from each year's legislative session. The fiscal impact for this fiscal note to the SOS for Administrative Rules is less than $2,500. The SOS recognizes that this is a small amount and does not expect that additional funding would be required to meet these costs. However, the SOS also recognizes that many such bills may be passed by the General Assembly in a given year and that collectively the costs may be in excess of what the office can sustain with the core budget. Therefore, the SOS reserves the right to request funding for the cost of supporting administrative rules requirements should the need arise based on a review of the finally approved bills signed by the governor.

Oversight assumes the SOS could absorb the costs of printing and distributing regulations related to this proposal. If multiple bills pass which require the printing and distribution of regulations at substantial costs, the SOS could request funding through the appropriation process.
