

SCS HCS HB 1525 -- CRIMINAL OFFENDERS

This bill establishes the Sentencing and Corrections Oversight Commission and changes the laws regarding criminal offenders under the supervision of the Department of Corrections.

SENTENCING AND CORRECTIONS OVERSIGHT COMMISSION

The bill establishes a 13-member Sentencing and Corrections Oversight Commission to monitor and assist in the implementation of these provisions, determine ways to reinvest any cost savings realized from the passage of these provisions to pay for continued implementation and other evidence-based practices to reduce recidivism, and examine the issue of restitution for crime victims.

The members of the commission will include a circuit court judge appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; three members to be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, one must be a victim's advocate, one must be a representative from the Missouri Sheriffs' Association, and one must be a representative of the Missouri Association of Counties; and the following ex officio voting members: the chair and the ranking minority member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, who will serve as co-chair; the chair and the ranking minority member of the House Appropriations-Public Safety and Corrections Committee, who will serve as co-chair; the director of the Missouri State Public Defender System or his or her designee who is a practicing public defender; the Executive Director of the Missouri Office of Prosecution Services or his or her designee who is a practicing prosecutor; the Director of the Department of Corrections or his or her designee; the Chairman of the Board of Probation and Parole within the Department of Corrections or his or her designee; and the Chief Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court or his or her designee. The members will serve in staggered four-year terms.

The commission must meet at least twice a year, and the first meeting must occur by February 28, 2013. The commission must issue a report on December 31, 2013, and every year thereafter, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, President Pro Tem of the Senate, Missouri Supreme Court Chief Justice, and the Governor detailing the effects of the implementation of these provisions. It may also recommend ways to reinvest any cost savings into evidence-based practices to reduce recidivism and possible changes to sentencing and corrections policies and statutes.

The department must provide administrative support to the commission to carry out these duties. No member of the commission can receive any compensation, but those members who are not otherwise reimbursed by their agency will be reimbursed for travel and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

These provisions expire August 28, 2018.

EARNED COMPLIANCE CREDITS

With the exception of an offender who is subject to lifetime supervision or who is placed on probation, parole, or conditional release for certain specified offenses, the Division of Probation and Parole within the Department of Corrections must award earned compliance credits to any offender who is placed on probation, parole, or conditional release for a violation of a drug crime in Chapter 195 or for a class C or D felony, excluding the offenses of aggravated stalking, sexual assault, deviate sexual assault, assault in the second degree in specific instances, sexual misconduct involving a child, endangering the welfare of a child in the first degree in specific instances, incest, invasion of privacy, and abuse of a child; is supervised by the board; and is in compliance with the conditions of supervision imposed by the sentencing court or board. If an offender was placed on probation, parole, or conditional release for an offense of involuntary manslaughter in the first or second degree, assault in the second degree in specific instances, domestic assault in the second degree, assault of a law enforcement officer in the second degree, statutory rape or sodomy in the second degree, endangering the welfare of a child in the first degree in specific instances, or any felony weapons offense under Chapter 571, the court may, upon its own motion or a motion of the prosecuting or circuit attorney, make a finding that an offender is not eligible to earn compliance credits because the nature and circumstances of the offense or the history and character of the offender indicate that a longer term of probation, parole, or conditional release is necessary for the protection of the public or the guidance of the offender. Earned compliance credits must reduce the term of probation, parole, or conditional release by 30 days for each full month of compliance with all terms of supervision but may be suspended or rescinded if the offender violates the conditions of supervision. An offender deemed to be an absconder, as defined in the bill, cannot earn credits.

Once the combination of time served in custody; on probation, parole, or conditional release; and earned compliance credits satisfies the total term of probation, parole, or conditional release, the board or sentencing court must order final discharge of the offender if the offender has completed at least two years of his or her sentence in custody or on probation or parole.

At least twice a year, the division must calculate the number of months the offender has remaining on supervision, taking into consideration any earned credits, and notify the offender of the length of the remaining term. No less than 60 days before the date of final discharge, the division must notify the sentencing court, the board, and, for probation cases, the circuit or prosecuting attorney of the impending discharge. If none of these parties takes any action upon receiving this notice, the offender must be discharged under these provisions.

ADMINISTRATIVE JAIL SANCTIONS

The bill allows, as an alternative to the revocation proceedings, a probation or parole officer to order an offender to a period of detention in the county jail or other appropriate institution for a short period of time when the officer believes the offender has violated a condition of probation or parole unless the court has otherwise required detention to be a condition of probation. The first period of detention cannot exceed 48 hours, but subsequent periods may exceed 48 hours. However, the total cannot exceed 360 hours in any year. The officer must present the offender with a report detailing the violation and advise the offender of the right to a hearing before the court or board prior to the period of detention.

The division must reimburse the county jail or other institution for the costs of detention at a rate to be determined by the department, which must be at least $30 per day per offender and subject to appropriations by the General Assembly. Prior to ordering the offender to detention, the officer must certify to the county jail that the division has sufficient funds to provide reimbursement. A jail or institution may refuse to detain an offender if funds are not available or there is inadequate space in the facility.

Upon successful completion of the offender's period of detention, the court or board cannot revoke the term of parole, probation, or conditional release or impose additional periods of detention for the same incident unless new or additional information is discovered that was unknown to the division when the period of detention was imposed and indicates that the offender was involved in the commission of a crime. If the offender fails to complete the period of detention or new or additional information is discovered that the incident involved a crime, he or she may be arrested.

MANDATORY PLACEMENT IN A 120-DAY PROGRAM

If a continuation, modification, enlargement, or extension of the probation period is not appropriate, the court must order certain offenders to be placed in one of the department's 120-day programs when the offender violated a condition of probation. An offender who is on probation for a class C or D felony or a drug offense; whose probation violation does not involve absconding or being arrested on suspicion of, being found guilty of, or pleading guilty to any crime; who has not violated any conditions of probation involving the possession or use of weapons or a stay-away condition; and who has not already been placed in a 120-day program for the same offense or during the same probation term will be eligible for placement in one of these programs. However, the court may, upon its own motion or a motion of the prosecuting or circuit attorney, make a finding that an offender is not eligible if the underlying offense is involuntary manslaughter in the first or second degree, aggravated stalking, assault in the second degree, sexual assault, domestic assault in the second degree, assault of a law enforcement officer in the second degree, statutory rape or sodomy in the second degree, deviate sexual assault, sexual misconduct involving a child, incest, endangering the welfare of a child in the first degree in specific instances, abuse of a child, invasion of privacy, or any felony weapons offense under Chapter 571. Upon receiving the order from the court for placement, the department must conduct an assessment and place the offender in the appropriate 120-day program. Once the offender has successfully completed the program, the court must release the offender to continue to serve the term of probation without modifying, enlarging, or extending the term based on the same violation. Time served in the program must be credited as time served against the offender's sentence.
